The Great Tim Horton's "Roll - Up the Rim to WIN" Coffee Cup Contest Caper of 2017

Ever notice something odd with your Tim Horton's roll-up coffee cup ?
Somebody is using carbon tetrachloride, or some other chemical,
to cheat the game.

Why would I make the accusation that there is some conspiracy in the distribution chain? Simple. There is.

The evidence.

Buy any Tim Horton roll-up coffee and let it cool.
Next, roll up the entire rim. It takes a small effort to do this, except at the location where the prize/non-prize is written. The paper here is always extremely fragile and rolls up with almost no effort, as if it were already unrolled then rolled up again.

The Tim Horton Roll-Up the Rim to WIN contest is a scam, with all the major prizes having been located and re-allocated to whomever the cheats have predetermined. Enjoy your coffee !

A Homily Regarding the Apparent Apparitions of the Blessed Mary, Mother of God, in Medjugorje

Once again, a rather nasty strain of fungus has bedevilled the good girls of our community in the Baltics, causing them to experience severe religious hallucinations – in particular, the apparent appearance of an apparition purporting itself to be, de facto, the Blessed Virgin Mary Mother of God.

This time, its the young ladies of the Medjugorje sanctorium whom are livid with the florid fungal infection, primarily in the vaginal environs. Its most notable feature (other than the typical rank odor usually associated with this beast) is the apparent manifestation of Mary, the Holy Mother of God, who gave Blessed Teat to Babe Jesu, who then enlightens the poor dears with some nonsense or claptrap or drivel or other of a religious-sounding nature.

If I have instructed our bucolic lassies once, I've instructed them a thousand times. So, once again. Always wash thoroughly, then disinfect all candles, crucifixes, mop handles and such in wooden milk buckets filled with Holy Water and no less than 20 garlic bulbs for a full 24 hours before inserting them into bodily orifices.

This generally prevents the spread of the nasty dastardly fungus.
